G-Zero # ZEEER-oh # In A world order in which no single country or durable alliance of countries can meet the challenges of global leadership. What happens when the G20 doesn't work and the G7 is history. If the worst threatenella rogue nuclear state, a major health crisis, the collapse of the global financial system/where would the world look for leadership? For the first time in seven decades, there is no single power or alliance of powers ready to take on the challenges of global leadership. A generation ago, the United States, Europe, and Japan were the world's powerhouses, the free-market democracies that propelled the global economy forward. But today, they struggle just to find their footing. Acclaimed geopolitical analyst Ian Bremmer argues that this leadership vacuum is here to stay, as power is regionalized instead of globalized. Now that so many challenges transcend borders/from the stability of the global economy and climate change to cyber-attacks and terrorism/the need for international cooperation has never been greater.

This revised and updated fourth edition of the leading text on political ideologies contains a new chapter on multiculturalism, consideration of the changing nature of ideological discourse, including the transition from "traditional" to "new" ideologies, and coverage of the impact on the major ideological traditions of developments such as globalization and the "war on terror".

This is a textbook for the AS level in government and politics covering all topics in the Edexcel and AQA syllabi and the core requirements of other boards. It is packed with features to aid learning and revision.

The new edition has been substantially revised and updated to include coverage of the latest advances in GIS technology and applications (particularly web-based and mobile applications) and to provide pointers to recent research and publications. --
