After strategies are set and plans are made, management 's primary task is to take steps to ensure that these plans are carried out, or, if conditions warrant, that the plans are modified. This is the critical control function of management. And since management involves directing the activities of others, a major part of the control function is making sure other people do what should be done.

The Control Function of Management

Management control is described as a function that is aimed at achieving defined goals within a set timetable. The process has three major components, like taking remedial action, measuring the actual performance, and setting standards. The process includes comparing actual and planned performance, measuring the difference between the two, identifying the causes that have lead to the difference and taking corrective action to minimize or remove the difference.
